Woman's Club

The regular meeting of the Woman's Club was held Monday evening in the Library. The general subject of the evening was Current History and the Club was so fortunate as to secure Prof. Groat of the U. V. M., who discussed the issues of the Presidential campaign in a most scholarly and instructive way.

The attention of the Club members is called to the fact that the next meeting of the Club occurs Monday, Nov. 6, at Academy hall, when they will enjoy an evening with Shakespeare. Dr. I. C. Smart of Burlington will give a lecture on that evening, taking for his subject, "A Simple Reader and His Shakespeare." All lovers of Shakespeare are invited to be present.

P. A. Notes

Last Friday evening the Senior class gave the annual Hallowe'en masquerade at Academy Hall. The hall was decorated in Hallowe'en style and many spooky corners enclosed witches, who foretold the future, fish ponds, from which one could fish all sorts of wonderful things at an expense of only one cent, and a booth where delicious candy could be purchased. The stage was converted into a dangerous chamber of mystery and horrors and whosoever entered therein took their life in their hand. Many thoughtless adventurers patronized these features. In this weird crowd were all sorts of people—some came over from Japan and China, quaint Holland was represented, a convict escaped from Sing Sing to make merry with some pretty maidens from Morrisville, a few brave soldiers enlisted in the throng, Dinah and Rastus came up from Charleston with their master and mistress, queer little elf and fairies flew in from fairyland, a skeleton wandered aimlessly around, clever clowns from every circus in the country did their funny and were quelled by stern policemen. In case of accident, a Red Cross nurse was at service and graceful gypsies made you forget your troubles. Two very distinguished gentlemen from Fifth Avenue added style to the occasion. Ghosts met you everywhere.

Two prizes were offered, to the boy and girl who best carried out their costumes. Miss Lefa Nay, who was a polished gentleman from the old South, was awarded one of these prizes and Gerald Fay, a pig-tailed Chinaman, the other.

The P. A. orchestra furnished music for part of the numbers and the victrola was used for dance music.

Probably the best part of the entertainment of the evening was a farce entitled "The Ghost of Jerry Bandler", which was presented by Messrs. Warren, Ellis, Sillaway, Ober, Fairbanks, Montgomery and Cram of the Senior class. This farce was played in true ghostly fashion and much credit is due the fellows who took part in it. Many townspeople were at the hall to see this part of the program.

Wednesday morning Mr. Farman, the blind chaplain of the Vermont Senate, gave a lecture to the P. A. students in Academy Hall. This talk, based upon the subject of blindness, proved most interesting and all those who heard Mr. Farman most certainly appreciate his wonderful ability. He demonstrated reading by the blind and told much of the thoughts and feelings of himself and those who are afflicted as he is.

Mr. Reynolds visited P. A. Thursday morning and gave a short talk at the chapel hour.

The girls' basket ball team is being organized and preparations are in progress for a Coney Island to be given by the girls in the local gymnasium. This entertainment is sure to be good and the club is striving for originality in the stunt. All kinds of unique side shows, novelties and strange creatures will be on exhibition. Details of this exposition will be announced later.

Miss Maud Chaffee, a teacher in Burlington High school, was a guest at her home here last Saturday.
